

THE SPECTATOR ROOM

LIVE RUGBY VENUE

As well as being a favourite meeting room for the Queenstown business community and a popular venue for private functions, Tatler's upstairs Spectator Room is also a great place to watch live rugby over drinks or dinner.

There are some major rugby games to be played throughout New Zealand when teams from all over the world compete for the Rugby World Cup in September and October.

If you're not attending the games then watching them live with a great meal in stylish surroundings is the next best thing.

Tatler's MySky includes the live-pause option and the picture is enlarged via our data projector so everyone gets a great view.

Tatler's a la carte and function menus are available for groups and we have also developed a special menu and beverage package for fans who wish to book a private rugby function in the Spectator Room.

The Spectator Room ...

- ◆ Accommodates 28 guests seated inside and 12 on the adjoining balcony;
- ◆ Features a data projector with integrated audio;
- ◆ Is heated by the original open fireplace and lit by chandeliers and candle light;
- ◆ Includes exclusive access to the balcony which has lake views and is licenced until 1.30am
- ◆ Has a private upstairs bathroom;
- ◆ Features a fully-stocked bar with cash, eftpos and credit card facilities.
- ◆ Has My-Sky recording and playback with live pause.

Rugby in Queenstown

Queenstown will be hosting four teams during the World Cup training period. Locals and visitors may meet players from the Irish, Georgian, Romanian and English teams during the two weeks of September 1 to 15.

And a major game is scheduled to be played in Queenstown: on Sunday 18 September the All Blacks Classic team are playing the French Classic team.

This is sure to be a popular event for Queenstowners and the many international rugby fans who follow the All Blacks and Les Tricolores.

Did you know the first international test match the French side ever played was against New Zealand? It was January 1906 in Paris and New Zealand won 38-8. We hope they repeat their victory on 18 September in Queenstown.

Book your private rugby venue

We recommend you book well ahead if you'd like to hold a rugby dinner party at Tatler. Contact Jo Weir for menu details and date availability. Email sales@tatler.co.nz or call 027 457 3023.

